

My husband and I spend anywhere from 4 to 6 hours a day commuting to work in Northern Virginia from our home in Orange. We find the traffice reports essential in gauging when we may actually arrive at work. The congestion of the roads seems like a problem that only gets worse and worse as the urban area continues to spill over. We find the programming - especially the traffic and weather reports invaluable to us as we try to determine our route in the mornings and evenings. Please consider the thousands of commuters who own and use Satelite radio traffic reports from the air.

Thank You,
Rose Noxon
